Virginia Intermont's New Dormitory

Shown on the cover is the architect's drawing of the new six story dormitory presently under construction at Virginia Intermont. The new dormitory, constructed of reinforced concrete, will house 186 students and will increase the boarding capacity of the college to approximately 500 students. Some of the present dormitory space will be converted to other uses or will be torn down after completion of the new structure. The date of completion is Summer 1966.

A New Magazine . . . An Old Request

With this issue, the alumnae publication has grown from a bulletin to a magazine. The magazine will be published quarterly in the Spring, Summer, Fall, and Winter.

Our goal in publishing the Alumnae Magazine is to keep you, the alumnae, informed concerning the college and its activities and news about other alumnae around the world. The college news we will gather, but most of the news about our alumnae must come from you. Therefore, we urge you to continually send information concerning your activities and those of alumnae who are your acquaintances.

We also request that each alumna complete the form on the back cover of this issue and return it to the alumnae office as promptly as possible.

We feel that the joint efforts and cooperation of college and alumnae will result in the publication of a magazine of the greatest benefit to you, our cherished alumnae. To this end we dedicate our efforts.

The Editor

A Challenge From The President

Dr. Floyd V. Turner

Virginia Intermont College is fortunate in having on campus the C. Ernest Cooke Collection. This collection is unique in that it covers many different eras with objects of art and literature in addition to many other items of cultural interest. From an educational viewpoint, the collection is invaluable, and its equal is not to be found on the campus of any other college in the south. It would be impossible to put an accurate monetary value on such a magnificent collection.

Over a period of many months I have discussed with Mr. Cooke the possibility of transferring ownership of his collection to the college. He has agreed to do this if the college will construct a building in which it can be housed and exhibited. He is most interested that the building be built so that the objects he has can be permanently and suitably exhibited. This the administration of the college wants also.

Mr. Cooke is in the midst of his thirty-fifth year at Virginia Intermont College. During that time he has taught almost five thousand students and has come into personal contact with hundreds of others. As I go to alumnae meetings throughout the year, former students always ask about Mr. Cooke, and they have many fond memories of the Sunday night art lectures and the spring vacation trips to New York. This man in the finest sense of the word has dedicated his life to Virginia Intermont College and to his work. He has made the statement to me that it would thrill him greatly to be able to leave to the college something of more value than the total income he has received from the college. This he is able to do by leaving his collection to the college so that all future students and the people of this area may enjoy it and profit from it. I have already requested of Mr. Cooke that he continue with the college past retirement age and serve as curator of his collection and that he work with the architect in planning this building. These things he has agreed to do.

The college architect estimates that the type of building we want would cost one hundred and twenty thousand dollars. I believe that every member of the Alumnae Association will want to have a part in honoring Mr. Cooke and in making it possible for all future students to enjoy the cultural advantages which would be provided. I am asking that the Executive Committee of the Alumnae Association at its January meeting approve as a project the challenge to raise sixty-thousand dollars or one half of the cost of the C. Ernest Cooke Building. The college agrees to match whatever is raised up to sixty thousand dollars, dollar for dollar, thus providing the total amount necessary.

You will receive additional information regarding this project. I ask that you give this matter your earnest consideration.

Enrollment Statistics

Virginia Intermont's first session opened on September 13, with a record enrollment of 493 students. Of this number 438 are boarding students and 55 are day students. Two hundred ninety-two of the students are freshmen, (a new designation replacing the "junior" label of the past. Upperclassmen are now sophomores instead of seniors). Twenty-nine states and two foreign countries are represented in the student body.

Faculty Involvement in The Total Student

A new program of religious emphasis has been started this year at Virginia Intermont. This program called "Faculty Involvement In The Total Student" seeks to lead the faculty member to realize that his responsibilities to the student extend beyond the classroom to any encounter with the student. A series of five religious emphasis periods throughout the year will help to integrate the Christian life into all areas of endeavor by both the student and faculty member.

Dr. Jack Noffsinger led off the series on September 28. The next period of emphasis was October 27. Dr. A. J. Edmondson from the Division of Aero Space Engineering at the University of Tennessee spoke to the faculty on Tuesday evening. On Wednesday, Rev. Charles Fuller, First Baptist Church, Roanoke spoke to the students and had conferences afterwards.

It is hoped that this series of five religious emphasis periods will lend an atmosphere of more sustained Christian emphasis throughout the year than does the traditional Religious Emphasis Week.

Cultural Art Series

The outstanding Cultural Arts Series at Virginia Intermont continues to be an integral part of the student's education.

"The Little Angels" performed before a capacity audience in the gymnasium November 1st. (See review by Mr. Cooke on page 3.) Other productions scheduled for the year are The Longines Symphonette, January 31; the National Players production of The Miser by Moliere, February 25; and Nell Rankin, Metropolitan opera star, April 4.

Faculty Activities

Miss Ruth Butler, Spanish instructor at Virginia Intermont was guest speaker at the District P. Virginia Education Association meeting in Roanoke Thursday, September 30, 1965. Her topic was, "Foreign Language Teaching Gets A Face-Lifting," and concentrated on new techniques in foreign language teaching.

Mr. Dick May, speech instructor at Virginia Intermont has been notified of his election as Vice President for the Eastern Region of Phi Rho Pi, National Junior College Forensics Honorary Society. The Eastern Region includes all states east of the Mississippi River. Mr. May has taught speech at Virginia Intermont since 1958.

Joe Ward, Art instructor at Virginia Intermont led two seminars at Ridgecrest Baptist Assembly in Ridgecrest, North Carolina this summer. The first was entitled "Art and Christianity" and the second "Art Careers." Mr. Ward also completed his M.A. degree in Art Education at East Tennessee State University.

Dr. Achille Riviello, French instructor, worked with a Peace Corps Training Project at Brown University this summer. As coordinator of area studies for 134 trainees bound for Tunisia, he taught and acted as liaison man with the Tunisian Embassy and officials from that country's ministry of education.

Charles F. Thompson, art instructor, won first prize in the Art Festival sponsored by the Bristol Junior Women's Club and Sears-Roebuck October 20-23. Mr. Thompson's oil painting, "Vase of Flowers" won the $100.00 prize for "best in show" and was also picked as best painting in the oil medium. Andrea Dixon, one of Mr. Thompson's students, won second place.

Turners Honored On 25th Anniversary

Dr. and Mrs. Floyd V. Turner, were honored Tuesday evening, September 21, with a surprise dinner party at the Bristol Country Club in honor of their 25th wedding anniversary. The event was sponsored by the faculty and administration of the college.

Mr. S. O. Snodgrass, college business manager presented the couple a beautiful engraved silver tray. Prior to the presentation he made a brief but very moving speech concerning the Turners and their contribution to Virginia Intermont.

A program (on the order of This Is Your Life), written by C. Ernest Cooke and Richard M. Styles was presented. Humorous and serious events in the life of the Turners were depicted. Mrs. Carroll Kelley furnished piano accompaniment.

Charles Owens, faculty club president, presided over the gala affair which attracted almost 100 friends of the Turners.

The following morning in chapel, Peggy Bolin, Student Government Association president, presented the Turners an engraved silver pitcher and Linda Mellinger, representing Mr. Roberts and the firewardens gave Dr. Turner a watch.

All the gifts and expressions of congratulations were graciously accepted by a very gracious couple who have meant much to Virginia Intermont College.

Rev. J. Neal Tolson is now interim pastor at Grace Baptist Church in Bristol, Virginia. Rev. Tolson teaches in the religion department at the college.

The annual summer tour of Europe sponsored by the college departed this summer on June 14 and returned July 21. The sponsors were Mrs. Lee Kovacs and Miss Peggy O'dell.

Fifteen people went on the tour which included England, France, Spain, Holland and Germany.

This is a year of changes: Seniors are Sophomores, Juniors are Freshmen, and Virginia Intermont has a new dean—Dr. Ernest Howard St. Jacques. Dr. St. Jacques was born January 26, 1924, in the snowy state of Massachusetts and there received his elementary and high school education. When a rich uncle of his, Uncle Sam, "offered" him a job, he moved to the sunny south and here met and married his wife in 1946. Then it was back to Massachusetts to attend Worcester State Teacher's College, where in 1950 he received his B.S.Ed. One year later he earned his M.A. in history at George Peabody College. Twelve years later he returned to George Peabody for his Ph.D. The time between degrees was spent teaching history and related subjects at both high school and college level.

Dr. St. Jacques now lives at 428 Harmeling with his wife Elizabeth and their four children, John 13, Greg 12, Aleta 8, and Joel 5.

His hobbies? Well, his hobby is photography, but he says his most enjoyable time is spent playing with his children. He likes to watch football, which is a little turncoat, as he used to play basketball. He thinks all music is great, and also likes to read and watch television. His favorite type of book is the historical novel (it figures), and his favorite author is Kenneth Rogers. "Man From U.N.C.L.E." rates as one of his favorite TV shows.

His weakness is red hair and food, and it is understood that his wife is both a redhead and a good cook.

When asked how he liked the role of Dean of Virginia Intermont, he replied, "I am enjoying it very much."

We are enjoying having him as our Dean, too. He is always ready to help you, even though the sign on his desk reads: "The answer is NO, but go ahead and ask me."

"Little Angels" Perform

- by C. E. Cooke -

The "Little Angels" of Korea were presented November 1, 1965 in the Virginia Intermont gymnasium, by the Korean Cultural and Freedom Foundation, under the personal patronage of His Excellency, Hyum Chul Kim, Ambassador of the Republic of Korea to the United States of America. This program was the first of four outstanding presentations to be included in the Fine Arts Series at the College for 1965-66.

It was an incomparable program, of such color, rhythm, grace, and charm as to break down any barrier or remove any prejudice that might still exist between the East and West. The Republic of Korea could not have sent us any more effective or more welcome ambassadors of good will than the Little Angels.

The company of folk dancers consists of twenty-six girls, from seven to fourteen years of age, with all the appeal of their special kind and degree of loveliness. If thirty-five years at Intermont have made me a competent and experienced judge of "little angels," I must say these are the real thing.

These dancers have been disciplined until every movement is controlled and expressive. Besides, whoever realized before how much can be communicated around the world, by a smile, or by twenty-six smiles in unison? And whoever sensed before how much can be expressed by the simple twirling of a colored streamer?

Accompanying the dancers was an "aak," or court music orchestra, made up of five adult members of the Korean National Court Music Academy in Seoul.

Outstanding among the dance numbers was "The Penitent Monk," portraying the inner struggles of a Buddhist monk, and performed by six small girls, each with a set of seven drums.

The grand finale, "America the Beautiful," performed by the entire company, was inspired by the love and friendship of Korea for America.

Other programs included in the Fine Arts Series will be the Longines Symphonette, January 31; The National Players production of The Miser by Moliere; February 25; and Nell Rankin, Metropolitan Opera star, April 4.

Welcome To New Faculty Members

Three faculty members and one residence counselor have been added at Virginia Intermont this year. There are presently 36 faculty members.

Miss Ruth Butler is the new teacher of Spanish. She has taught Spanish at Science Hill High School, Murray State College, University of Wisconsin, Lebanon Valley College and Bristol Virginia High School. Miss Butler has the A.B. degree from George Washington University, the M.A. from Columbia University, and has done graduate study at the Sorbonne in Paris, The University of Mexico, Vanderbilt University, and University of Poitiers, Tours, France.

Two additions have been made to the English Department. Mr. Daniel F. Marsteller and his wife, Jeanne, are now living in faculty housing at the college. Mr. Marsteller comes to Virginia Intermont from the University of Virginia, where he received his M.A. degree in English. His A.B. is from Franklin and Marshall College. He was born in Allentown, Pennsylvania.

Mr. Jerry Wright is another new faculty member in the English Department. He was born in Martin, Tennessee and did his undergraduate work at Howard College in Alabama. His graduate work in English was accomplished at the University of Tennessee. Mr. Wright is a member of a number of honorary organizations including Sigma Tau Delta (English) and Omicron Delta Kappa (National Honorary Society).

Mrs. Glenna Atwell is a new Residence Counselor at Virginia Intermont. She attended Bristol, Virginia schools and is former housemother for Delta Tau Delta Fraternity at the University of Tennessee. She has one daughter, Angela, a graduate of Virginia Intermont.

Farewell To Dean Allred

(Mr. John Allred resigned his position as Dean of Student Personnel at the college Nov. 15. He is presently president of Cartenva Enterprises, Inc. in Bristol, Va. He asked that the following words be printed in the Alumnae Magazine.)

I came to Virginia Intermont in Jan., 1962 and I have since served the College in several capacities. My latest responsibility was that of Dean of Student Personnel. In leaving, I would like to express my appreciation to the present student body and to the alumnae of Virginia Intermont for their wonderful spirit and co-operation. My life has certainly been enriched by the many fine young ladies I have been privileged to know during my stay at Virginia Intermont. I feel that the College is making wonderful progress and that it will continue to make a very worthwhile contribution to the field of higher education.

A Message From Mr. Cooke

(Mr. C. Ernest Cooke delivered the following address at a luncheon for the class of 1940 during Alumnae Weekend October 22-23. For the benefit of those of the class of 1940 who were unable to attend, as well as all other alumnae who will feel that Mr. Cooke is also talking to them, we have reproduced the speech with Mr. Cooke's permission.)

Ladies of the class of 1940, as I look at you today, I can't believe that you finished at Virginia Intermont in 1940. And as you look today, it seems impossible. It must have been 1930 that you finished.

I remember you in general as adding much to our enchanted evenings, and even more to our dis-enchanted mornings. I remember many of you in particular. Where is that little ball of fire with such terrific energy? She's probably that tiger in some one's gas-tank.

Those of us who have remained here through the years have had it pretty rough since you were here, but not nearly so rough as we had it while you were here.

Since I came here thirty-five years ago, many changes have taken place in the nation, on the campus, and in the faculty and student personnel, changes not all of my doing, nor of my choosing.

In the nation, there have been six presidents: Washington, Adams, Jefferson,—and you remember all the others.

When I came here, the back side of the campus was all Marlboro country, where the gymnasium, library building, Senior Hall, student center, fine arts center, and science hall now are.

Of course, there has been a big turnover in the faculty. Every year, some teachers leave the profession, for some more remunerative work, such as banking, street-cleaning, begging, etc. Besides, some of the greener teachers move on to greener pastures. But there are always enough of the green ones left, to carry on the traditions of the Old Alma Mater.

Of course, the student personnel has changed every two years. Thirty-five years ago, the students were nearly all Baptist from the state of Virginia. You might suppose that was pure Heaven, but it wasn't. Through the years, we've had some terrific students. I mean unforgettable personalities. I remember, all in one class, the Alice, Betty, and Doris, they've been naming the hurricanes after.

Now don't imagine that East Hall is as lawless as Dodge City, because it is. The girls all carry cards reading "Have fun, will travel," and they surely will if the Dean ever catches up with them.

When I came here, thirty-five years ago, I expected to stay for a year, or two—and I did. And I am glad. I have taught nearly 5000 Virginia Intermont girls. Just think of the honor and the responsibility of introducing "the melancholy Dane" to that many melancholy dames. We have had 1000 meetings of the Art Interest Group, with 1000 different girls over the years. I have taken 500 Virginia Intermont girls to New York, where they have seen their first opera, first Broadway play, and first great art gallery.

I have even taken a few to Europe. On a dozen trips abroad, I have collected 20,000 art and literary objects, which have been used in 500 exhibitions and seen by an aggregate of 100,000 people.

Girls, I salute you as evidence of the validity of the Intermont philosophy of education. We believe in the education of the whole personality, for the greatest participation in, and the greatest contribution to, the free democratic society, and we believe we see proof of the value and importance of that philosophy in you. We think we see in you the heightened self, enjoying more, caring more, suffering more, and giving more. We think we see in you not empty lives, but lives filled with the happiness and satisfaction of those who have escaped from the prison of self and who have been liberated by coming into contact with the best that man has thought and done, and dreamed of doing, through all the centuries.

This Was The Weekend That Was

Presiding over the registration table is Mrs. Marjorie KING Smith assisted by members of Nostrae Filiae.

The first Fall observance of Alumnae Weekend proved to be a success in many ways as alumnae from eleven states and the District of Columbia converged on the campus October 22-23. Theme for the week-end was, "This Was . . . Is . . . Will Be . . . Virginia Intermont."

Honored classes for the week-end were the classes of 1915, 1925, 1935, 1940, 1945, 1955 and 1960. The class of 1955 had the largest number of alumnae in attendance, twenty-five. They were followed closely by a large group from the class of 1940.

The week-end activities began with registration in the student center under the direction of Marjorie King Smith, treasurer of the Alumnae Association. She was assisted by members of Nostrae Filiae who volunteered their services for the entire week-end and were of great assistance in all areas. An interesting display of photographs of activities and personnel of the past years at Virginia Intermont occupied a great deal of the alumnae's time. Also there were scrapbooks on the tables which contained photographs of events of the past few years at the college. These displays attracted the present-day students at Virginia Intermont as much as the alumnae.

Friday evening was devoted to the Fine Arts and the President's Reception at Dr. and Mrs. Turner's home.

Mr. Ralph Osthoff, member of the music faculty at the college started the Fine Arts program by playing his dulcimer and singing. His repertoire included folk and mountain music which the crowd greatly enjoyed.

The Drama Department presented excerpts from "The Innocents," "Jo," and "Yerma." The first two plays were presented in the past at Virginia Intermont and "Yerma" was in preparation at the time and was presented November 18, 19, and 20. Mr. Ralph Swanson was in charge of the dramatic presentations.

Various types of dance occupied the remainder of the program. Modern dance numbers by Orche-sis under the direction of Mrs. Virginia Canter, and folk dance groups under the supervision of Miss Joyce Garner constituted this section of the program. Following the Fine Arts presentation, alumnae had an opportunity to view some of the work of art students at the college.

All the Fine Arts presentations were polished and well presented. A vote of thanks is due the faculty and students who worked long and hard on these presentations.

An event in the Turner's home is always an entertaining and enjoyable one and the President's Reception was no exception. The Bristol Chapter of Virginia Intermont alumnae was in charge of the arrangements and they did their usual efficient and well coordinated job. In the receiving line were Mrs. Lake Barnes, president of the Alumnae Association, Dr. and Mrs. Floyd V. Turner, and Mrs. David Lindamood, president of the Bristol Alumnae chapter. Approximately 150 persons attended the reception.

Saturday was a day filled with activity for the alumnae. Registration continued in the Student Center for late arrivals. A special water show was presented under the direction of Mrs. Mary Lou Carter Smith, class of 1955, who is a faculty member at Virginia Intermont. At 11 A.M. a general meeting of the alumnae was held in the conference room of the Student Center. A story on the decisions reached during this meeting appears on page 8.

The lunch hour on Saturday found some of the reunion classes having lunch in local restaurants and other alumnae eating in the college cafeteria. The classes of 1955, 1940 and 1960 had well-attended luncheon meetings.

Mr. C. Ernest Cooke was in charge of an Art Exhibition Saturday at 4:30. Included in the exhibit were manuscripts, letters, books and other material pertaining to Shakespeare and his period in literary and art history. The ubiquitous Mr. Cooke moved among the alumnae explaining an exhibit, answering a question, renewing an acquaintance, and making everyone feel much at home in his world of art and literature.

The Saturday evening activities were highlighted by the alumnae dinner in the college dining hall attended by almost 150 alumnae and guests. A delicious meal of roast beef and all the trimmings was enjoyed by the assembled guests. A large number of husbands accompanied their wives to the dinner.

Mrs. Wanda Barnes acted as mistress of ceremonies for the evening's activities. She welcomed the guests and recognized special guests at the head table. These were: Mrs. H. P. King, Jr., an alumna and member of the Board of Trustees; Miss Marguerite Pflug, former Dean of Faculty at Virginia Inter mont and presently teaching German and French at King College; Mrs. Margaret Crumley, Director of Admissions; Mr. Ernest Dickey and his wife who is an honorary member of the Alumnae Association; Dr. and Mrs. Turner; Mr. Richard Styles, Director of Development and Public Relations and his wife; Mr. Barnes, and Mr. C. Ernest Cooke who gave the invocation.

Receiving special recognition was Mrs. Ackie Feathers, former secretary in the Alumnae office at the college. Ackie was recognized for having helped to hold the organization together during the past year and for her untiring efforts in behalf of the Virginia Inter mont Alumnae Association.

Mrs. Barnes then introduced Dr. Turner who welcomed the alumnae and guests to the college, and then explained some of the future plans for physical improvements. Dr. Turner explained the need for a permanent building to house the extensive collection belonging to Mr. Cooke and told the group that Mr. Cooke had agreed to leave the collection to the college provided arrangements were made for such a place. Dr. Turner then issued the challenge which is included in the front of this bulletin.

Following Dr. Turner's remarks Mrs. Crumley recognized the large group of Nostrae Filiae who were in attendance. Then she recognized each reunion class, asking that one person from the class tell some of the international, national, state or local events which occurred during their last year at Virginia Inter mont.

A new feature of this year's Alumnae Week-end was a decoration contest between the dormitories. The next item on the evening's agenda was the awarding of a trophy to a representative of the winning dormitory. Each dormitory (or wing in some instances) had prepared a display depicting the theme for the week-end. These were then judged by an alumnae committee.

Mrs. Jackie Dianich, class of 1960, was chairman of this committee and she presented the trophy from the Alumnae Association to the winning dormitory, Senior Hall. All of the displays were very well done and showed a great deal of ingenuity and creativity. The winning display depicted three dormitory rooms; one in the past, one in the present, and one of the future. Miss Carey Loving accepted the trophy.

After the dinner a presentation satirizing aspects of life at Virginia Inter mont in the past, present and future was presented by a group of students in the auditorium.

Reactions to the week-end have run from mild criticism of certain parts to wholehearted approval of most parts. Overall, however, this new time approach to Alumnae Week-end resulted in a very entertaining and informative two days filled with renewal of old acquaintances, discussions of "the way it used to be," and a strengthening of the conviction that Virginia Inter mont College continues to be one of the outstanding institutions of education in the South.

Shown receiving the trophy for best decorated dormitory Alumnae Week-end are Carey Loving and Nancy Jones of Senior Hall. Mrs. David Lindamood, president of the Bristol chapter of Virginia Inter mont Alumnae makes the presentation.

. Alumnae Weekend, 1965

Minutes of Fall Board Meeting

The Fall Board Meeting of the Virginia Intermont Alumnae Association was held Saturday, October 23, 1965 at 11:00 a.m. in the Student Center Conference Room.

Wanda COOPER Barnes, President, called the meeting to order and led in prayer.

Thirteen members and guests were welcomed to the meeting by the president.

The minutes of the winter board meeting were read and approved.

The treasurers report showed a balance of $2,007.11 as of October 23, 1965.

The following alumnae were appointed to the nominating committee: Eula WHITTAKER Clark, Jo Ann BISHOP Phlegar, Lillian GOSE Boggs, and Sara Newman.

The building to house Mr. Cooke's art collection was discussed. No action was taken on this until more information could be obtained.

The Parliamentarian, Phyllis TERRY Allred, was instructed to work on changes in the by-laws, which will be necessary with the changing of Alumnae Weekend to the fall.

The motion was made by Phyllis TERRY Allred and seconded by Marjorie KING Smith that dues be increased to $2.00 beginning with fall 1966. The motion carried.

Alma WALKER McChesney, Ackie Feathers, and Peggy Snodgrass were appointed as a committee to work on the "Alumna-of-the-year" award.

Mr. Richard Styles, Director of Development, told the group a new Alumnae Secretary would be hired soon. This Secretary would work reactivating old chapters and establishing new chapters. He also announced that the Alumnae Bulletin will be a magazine type bulletin.

Reports were given from the Washington Area, Kingsport, and Bristol Chapters.

Lillian GOSE Boggs had a moment of silent prayer for several Alumnae who have passed away.

The meeting was adjourned and the group was guest of the college for lunch.

Respectfully submitted
Peggy Snodgrass, Secretary

Mr. Cooke is shown explaining an item included in his Shakespearean display during Alumnae Weekend. Rose LEVY Johnson, Callie SEVIER Yerger, and Effie ALLEN Tillman, all from the class of '40, are the interested observers.

Reactions To The Weekend

(Excerpts from letters received in The Alumnae Office)

"Loved having the chance to see Mr. Cooke's exhibit, and thought the banquet was the best of its kind I've ever attended."

"I think it would be nice for more to attend the general alumnae meeting . . . held Saturday in the conference room."

"We felt that, as far as the college was concerned, we were treated just grand."

"Please convey to the present students my appreciation for allowing us the nostalgia of returning to our old rooms and going out of their way to be so friendly and kind."

"I was amazed at the work the girls had done in the dormitory contest. All of the displays were excellent. I still say that the Virginia Intermont girls are the most friendly, and they certainly made us feel at home."

"The Alumnae Weekend was a very well planned affair. My only suggestion would be that it be given more publicity in Bristol."

"I appreciate the policy of allowing husbands to attend the banquet and also allowing alumnae other than those whose reunion was being stressed."

"The consensus of our group seemed to be that the skit the last night, though clever, would have been more enjoyable had we been acquainted with more of the persons being spoofed, etc. But we liked seeing those cute girls perform—so can't even criticize that too adversely."
